THIS has been a bad year for local option in Kentucky. The Legislature has blacked its eyes repeatedly by the repeal of the special local option laws of a number of counties. The tendency in Kentucky is clearly away from an impossible attempt at prohibition that cannot be made to prohibit, toward a high license that regulates what it has been found impossible to suppress, says The Courier-Journal.

THE following is a special from Greenup to The New York Press: Alice Sunderland is an unusually pretty country girl residing with her father on a farm several miles from here. The girl is well educated, and has been a wonder to her friends for several years. She speaks to animals in an unknown tongue and they obey her implicitly, even against the commands of their own owners. She also foretells hours ahead just where and how many animals will be found at certain spots and what they will do.

Saturday she gave a public test of her power. She said five yoke of oxen would be found on Spalding Hill at a certain house. She described minutely what the animals and driver would do at her approach. It came about as she predicted. She then described a pasture some distance away, and said that under a certain tree were seven cows, which would approach when she came in sight and all give down their milk without being touched. The fluid came out in streams, but no one touched them. At her command they returned to their grazing. Many other wonderful things are told of her.

MONDAY was a wild day in Frankfort. A CINCINNATI lady at Venice writes under date of July 1st: "I have just come in from buying some flange iron work, and I want to tell you all about it. In the first place I took a survey of the various shops, which is quite necessary here, for every shop has a different price. I had heard of one—good and trustworthy, and much more reasonable than the others—finally stumbled upon it and made my purchases. All the articles are hand-made, and I saw them being made. From a sheet of iron they cut small strips, bend them in spirals with the fingers; then with a pair of pointed pliers they fastened them together with bands of iron, making the shape as they go along. The man, a picturesque good-looking fellow, said he had seven sons, all working. Upon my exclaiming at his having so many sons, "Oh, Madame," said he, "I am an old man; I am 43 years old, been working thirty-two years and have had fifteen sons and seven daughters, not all living now." What do you think of that for a family? His workmen work fourteen hours a day, and receive three francs for their day's work—the best artists—no wonder things are cheap!"

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

Condition of the Small Crops Throughout Kentucky Up to Yesterday.

The weather conditions of the past week were such as exerted but little influence upon the state of the crops. The first four days showed a nearly normal temperature, though owing to their sultriness the degree of heat appeared to be greater than it really was. On Friday night the temperature decreased sharply, and the three days following were abnormally cool for the season.

The amount of sunshine received was very near the normal in most sections of the state. The early part of the week was generally cloudy, but the clear days of the latter part brought the percentage to very near the average.

The precipitation of the week was very unevenly distributed, but the counties in the Bluegrass region and those contiguous to it received a much larger amount than any of the others, except McCracken, where very heavy showers also occurred. The excess in the sections named was due mainly to the heavy precipitation accompanying the series of severe thunder storms which prevailed in the central and Northern parts of the state Friday afternoon. The high winds incident to these storms were very destructive to corn and grain in the shock, the damage from this cause being apparently greatest in Shelby, Oldham, Mercer and the adjacent counties.

The outlook for the corn crop is upon the whole very good, the most encouraging reports of its condition coming from the extreme Western portion of the state. In a few places rain is needed to improve it, but with no unforeseen drawback the general crop will be very fine.

Reports from the tobacco districts indicate that the crop is in excellent condition. The correspondent in Christian county reports that it is "frenching" on low ground, but all other reports are of a favorable tone. The weather conditions have permitted the working of the crop and the fields are now generally clear of weeds.

Wheat threshing has made excellent progress during the week, except in sections visited by heavy rains, in which the work has been retarded somewhat. There is hardly a dissenting report from the general expression of opinion that the crop is the largest harvested in years, though during the past ten days the grain has sprouted in the shock in some places owing to heavy rains.

Oats is now about ready to harvest and the outlook for the crop is much better than it was some time since.

Garden crops and vegetables of all kinds are abundant and of good quality.

The effects of the April frosts upon fruit are now becoming more apparent, and it seems almost certain that the late crop will yield less than an average.

THOMAS ROBERTSON, who represented the Fourth Kentucky District in Congress in 1882 and 1884, died at his home in Elizabethtown, with a complication of diseases of liver. He was born near Hodgenville, and was Commonwealth Attorney and a Kentucky Legislator before his election to Congress.

A NEBRASKA man has just got a divorce from his wife because of her lying to him. In his petition he says that during the three years that he had lived with his wife she has told him 10,000 lies. He believed that it was a disease with her, but at the same time he concluded that he could not live with her. The court evidently thought that 10,000 lies told in three years—3,333 a year—was too many for a husband to stagger under, for, as stated, the divorce was granted at once.

It is a pretty hard thing to get a man out of the Cincinnati Workhouse even though he should chance to be innocent, as seems to be the case with John Ford, the tramp worker from Pittsburgh. He got $200 and six months because he was found leading a little girl towards an out house. The evidence against him was no stronger than that. Three witnesses swore that he committed a similar offense on Friday, when it was proven that he did not arrive in Cincinnati until Saturday. Wednesday a letter was received from Chief of Police O'Mara of Pittsburgh explaining that Ford was an honest young fellow, who enjoyed an excellent reputation. Two of his brothers are now on the police force. Notwithstanding this Judge Hart, who sent him out, does not feel inclined to release him, as though Prosecutor Hertenstein has made a motion to that effect. Judge Gregg shrugged his shoulders and says that he does not wish to interfere in the cases decided by Mr. Hart. And all this time poor Ford is in the Workhouse; and all this time common-sense people are pronouncing Judge Hart an 18 karat doppelganger.

How Our Globe's Age is Calculated.

The amount of lime salts in water which drains from districts made up of granites and basalts is found by comparison of different analyses to be on an average of about 3.73 parts in 100,000 parts of water. It is further assumed by those who take this mode of reckoning the age of the world that the excess areas of igneous rocks, taken on an average throughout all geological time, will bear to the exposures of sedimentary rocks a ratio of one to nine. From these and other more complicated data it has been inferred that the elimination of the calcareous matter now found in all the sedimentary strata must have been going on through a period of 900,000,000 years. This, therefore, represents the minimum age of the world. Geologists also conclude that the formation of the Laurentian, Cambrian and Silurian strata occupied a period of about 200,000,000 years; the red sandstone, the carboniferous and the poecilitic systems another 200,000,000 years, the remaining 500,000,000 of all other strata. Thus we are led to believe that geological time has been enormously in excess of the limits urged by certain well-known physicists, and that it has been ample to allow for all the changes which, on the hypothesis of evolution, have occurred in the organic world.

ENTIRE FAMILY

Killed by a Stroke of Lightning at Richmond, Va.

The Flesh Peeled From Their Scorched and Inanimate Bodies.

The Building Taken Fire and the Neighbors, With Difficulty Put Out the Flames and Rescued the Five Bodies—An Unprecedented Calamity.

RICHMOND, Va., July 21.—During a terrific rain and electrical storm a most appalling and unprecedented calamity occurred here in the instant death by lightning of an entire family of five persons. They were all asleep in their two-story residence, situated about a quarter of a mile beyond the eastern corporate limits of the city, when the fatal electric fluid struck them.

The bedroom was in the upper story, the building was isolated and the windows were raised. The tragedy was discovered by fire issuing from the roof, and when willing hands attempted to aid the family the flesh peeled from their scorched and inanimate bodies.

The names and ages of the deceased are as follows: Dale Emmett, 81 years; Alice Emmett, 32; Lillie Emmett, 5; Norman Emmett, 3 years, and a seven-month-old infant, not yet named. When the rescuers reached the room by ladders the scene which met their gaze was a ghastly one. In a bed lay Mr. Emmett, his wife and seven-month-old babe, while near by were smoldering the remains of his seven and five-year-old children.
